How to be a SciTech Champion

Because you're a fan of SciTech, the next steps to becoming a great SciTech Champion are easy! Simply promote SciTech through your network by recommending the program to small companies who could benefit from hiring interns but have yet to apply.

To help make this as convenient as possible, we've sent you a complimentary Champion Toolkit. Inside you will find everything you need to talk about, share and promote the program.

The materials include:

- A program overview
- Answers to frequently asked questions
- Student and employer testimonials
- Sample emails
- Sample blog posts/newsletter articles
- Sample social media posts
- The 2018 SciTech Annual Report
- The success stories one-pager
- Program photos and logos

Digital copies of the materials are included in the SciTech Champion flash drive, and are always available to you for download online at scitechmn.org/champion.

Talking about SciTech

We encourage you to share the included content both at your leisure and on a regular basis. If you need some help on where to begin, here are some examples of how to promote SciTech like a champ:

- Feature one of the sample articles in your company/organization's newsletter or blog
- Share the social media posts with your community on Twitter, Facebook or LinkedIn
 - (Using #SciTechChamp will help unite our network of champions and can connect you with fellow ambassadors to see their approach to talking about the program)
- Send a monthly or quarterly email to your professional network that includes some of the champion materials

- Remember to always link back to scitechmn.org, the Employer Page, or the enrollment portal

New content for sharing is always available on the SciTech blog, which updates with the latest success stories, internship features and employer and student resources every Monday.

If you haven't already, be sure to subscribe to the blog and follow SciTech on all your favorite social channels. You can find SciTech on Facebook, LinkedIn, Instagram, and Twitter @SciTechMN.

Looking for more ways to support Minnesota's STEM Workforce Economy? Become a member of the Minnesota High Tech Association (MHTA)! Each year, thousands of professionals strengthen their companies and organizations through the power of MHTA programs and events. MHTA members are critical to the success of programs like SciTech, and allow our community to speak with one voice as we advocate for policies that support Minnesota's innovation economy at the State Capitol.
